

BEARDS NOT MADE TO ORDER.

Nature is a Good Artist, and It is Best to Let Them Grow Naturally.

"Most men," said the learned French barber, according to the New York Sun, "imagine that they can control the direction in which their beards grow by shaving. That is absurd. If you will take a microscope and examine the face of a baby a week old you will see that the cheeks and chin are covered with very fine soft hairs, invisible to the naked eye. The direction in which they turn will never be changed. If the child is a male those hairs will constitute the beard when it grows to be a man. If it is of the other sex, they will make the down which the poet praises. Frequently men come to me and express a desire to have the shape of their beards altered by changing the direction in which the hairs grow. To all of these I say only: 'Messieurs, what you ask cannot be. All the curling irons and razors in the world are powerless against the decree of nature. Moreover it would be foolish for you to make such a change even though it were possible. Nature is a good artist, and if her ideas are followed the result is always good. A little training here or there may be beneficial, but the general plan of nature should be followed and not opposed. Be thankful, messieurs, that you have beards and do not try to ruin them.' So, too, I tell those with straight beards who wish to make them curly, and those with curly beards who wish to have them straight. It is possible to curl straight hair, and also to straighten curly hair, but the effect is temporary and more or less injurious."

THE LAUGH ON THE COMEDIAN.

How an Aspiring Actor Put an Actor in an Embarrassing Position.

An aspiring author once presented to M. Mowal, the famous comic actor, a manuscript titled with red tape, and begged him to give an impartial opinion of the production. The comedian promised to do so, and the young man waited for six months and more before he inquired as to his friend's verdict. At length he put the solemn question: "Was the piece adapted for the stage?" The comedian promised to let him know in a day or two. Three more weeks went by. Then again the author inquired the actor, and begged him not to defer his answer any longer. "Well, then," said the actor, "the fact is your play is decidedly clever. I may say particularly clever, but it is not quite the thing for the stage. The scenes, the acting, the development of the plot, the tag-in fact, it requires adapting to the stage before it could be possibly produced. I must decline it unwillingly, of course, but still—"

Mr. J. P. Blaine, an extensive real estate dealer in Des Moines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of pneumonia while in the northern part of the state during a recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review.

Mr. Blaine had occasion to drive several miles during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm, and inside of an hour after his return he was threatened with a severe case of pneumonia or lung fever. Mr. Blaine sent to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, of which he had often heard, and took a number of large doses. He says the effect was wonderful, and in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine, and the next day was able to come to Des Moines. Mr. Blaine regards his cure as simply wonderful. For sale by F. J. Wurzburg, druggist, 58 Monroe street.
